

Made You Smile

Posted originally on the Ad Astra :: Star Trek Fanfiction Archive at <http://www.adastrafanfic.com/works/1401>.

| | |
|------------------|--|
| Rating: | General Audiences |
| Archive Warning: | No Archive Warnings Apply |
| Category: | F/F |
| Fandom: | Children of Ceti Alpha V |
| Relationship: | Saavik/Original Female Character |
| Character: | Saavik , Maya Noonien-Singh |
| Additional Tags: | Fluff , Ficlet , Human/Vulcan Relationship(s) |
| Language: | English |
| Series: | Part 15 of Femslash February 2024 , Part 14 of Maya drabbles and ficlets |
| Stats: | Published: 2024-02-28 Words: 118 Chapters: 1/1 |

Made You Smile

by Planxty

Summary

Maya discovers something endearing about Vulcan physiology.

Notes

Saw something on tumblr about purring Vulcans so here we are Maya rarely saw Saavik sleep. What little sleep her Vulcan partner needed she got after Maya was fast asleep, and she spent most of the night simply lying awake beside her bondmate. This night Maya was awoken by another uneasy dream—not a nightmare, but one that made her breath a sigh of relief upon waking.

She closed her eyes and snuggled up closer to her lover. Saavik was still fast asleep and snoring softly in a manner that sounded decidedly inhuman. As Maya tried to fall back asleep, she felt Saavik's body softly vibrate. This wasn't snoring. This was purring!

Maya grinned and bit her lip to keep from laughing. No one told her that Vulcan's purred.

Please drop by the archive and comment to let the author know if you enjoyed their work!