Summary

What if the younger Jack Crusher is the son of Wesley Crusher? This story might tell you.

Notes

I don't own any characters that I didn't create.

Beverly Crusher was surprised to see that her son, Wesley, holding a baby wrapped in a blue blanket appeared in her room on the ship that she commanded. She didn't even see him come in.

"What are you doing here, Wesley, and what are you doing with a baby in your arms?" asked Beverly.

"This is my son, who I named after my dad. I fell in love with his mother and I married her. It was a mistake. She turned out to be an enemy alien who tricked me into putting my seed into her. When I found out the truth, I took my son and brought him to you," answered Wesley.

"Why did you bring him to me?" asked Beverly.

"I can't raise him myself. I need to hide him from his mother. I was hoping that you could raise him for me," answered Wesley. Beverly felt sorry for her son.

"Give me to me. I will raise him as my son," promised Beverly. Wesley gave Jack to his mother. Then, he vanished before Jack's real mother could find him. So, Beverly kept her promise to her son and raised Jack as her son. Jack never found out the truth about his birth and Beverly prayed that he never will. The end, for now.
