

For a thousand summers

Posted originally on the Ad Astra :: Star Trek Fanfiction Archive at <http://www.adastrafanfic.com/works/1750>.

Rating:	General Audiences
Archive Warning:	No Archive Warnings Apply
Category:	Gen
Fandom:	Expanded Universes (General)
Character:	Original Character(s)
Additional Tags:	Weekly Challenge: Dog House , Eugenics Wars , Pre-Series
Language:	English
Collections:	Weekly Writing Challenges
Stats:	Published: 2024-08-21 Words: 154 Chapters: 1/1

For a thousand summers

by Planxty

Summary

Not only did Khan flee Earth and leave behind his family...

...he left the dogs too!

Notes

This will be sad for the dog lovers. They don't get hurt or anything, they are just depressed. Title taken from the song at the end of Jurassic Bark, that's the vibe.

Charaani is the oldest of Khan's Earth kids

Khan Noonien-Singh was presumed dead, but his eldest child knew the truth, and, she suspected, so did the pair of Afghan hounds he left behind: Julius and Augustus. Animals understood death, but abandonment was harder for them to process. Two weeks ago, these dogs were full of proud energy. They galloped through the grounds like prized show horses and held their heads high as if they knew they were genetically superior dogs who belonged to a genetically superior human.

Now they were listless and had even given up on looking longingly out the window. They had little interest in food and rarely moved if not to relieve themselves. Charaani knelt beside them and placed a gentle hand on Julius's back. He had always been the more playful of the two, but the only response he gave was to glance sideways at Charaani so the whites of his eyes could be seen at the corner.

Please drop by the archive and comment to let the author know if you enjoyed their work!